ByteDance employees, based both on U.S. and China, were fired for spying journalists using Tik Tok's infrastructure.

DATE: January 2, 2024

COMMENT: It's best to quote The Guardian this time: "TikTok has admitted that it used its own app to spy on reporters as part of an attempt to track down the journalists' sources, according to an internal email. The data was accessed by employees of ByteDance, TikTok's Chinese parent company and was used to track the reporters' physical movements." – SOURCE: The Guardian. And some businesspeople still think there's no spying in real life done by apps on their phones....tsc tsc. Google and Facebook are now facing chinese competition.
