MARKET FACT #194

170

of Discord's employees are being laid off in 2024. The company is laying off 17% of its workforce.

DATE: January 12, 2024

COMMENT: The subject of layoffs doesn't seem to disappear, isn't that right? Companies that are LEADING the market are getting rid of a good part of their workforce despite all the "success". It's because you can't fake it during a Global Financial Crisis. You can only maintain a stance that "nothing is happening" up until a point, but the signs eventually show. This is one more of those cases. Furthermore, GOOGLE is laying off 1000 more employees aside from the 12,000 which were already sent home in September of 2023. And some people still think that having a job in the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) sectors is some sort of guarantee against layoffs. Think again.
