EUROPEAN countries: Austria, Spain and Portugal have untapped lithium reserves.

DATE: November 18, 2024

COMMENT: The European Union is dependent on other countries for its Lithium reserves and produces around 0.1%. The economic block though, has lithium reserves that weren't accessed, meaning they can start to be independent depending on what they find. A side point: Around 21 LITHIUM MINING operations exist today globally. This means that there's no need for that many mining operations to fuel the economy. Furthermore, 60% of The World's lithium reserves are located in the "lithium triangle", a region that includes Chile, Argentina and Bolivia. The Market of lithium has "secret" countries ready to enter the game. PS: The SOURCE is this one for the main stat.
