MARKET FACT #45

of Global GDP GROWTH comes from China

DATE: September 18, 2023

COMMENT: Why is that important? Because this shows how much growth China has been having over the years, and now, it's entering a New Era of slow growth. If a country like China is solely responsible for all that growth on its own, this means that other nations like Brazil, USA, United Kingdom and others are not that well too. Lack of growth from China is mostly because the population is getting too old, the country is experiencing rising debts, and there's a real estate crisis. Although China is the 2nd biggest economy, properties in Beijing for instance, are 48x the average salary of a Beijing citizen (!). Also, when the Trade War began it became obvious that 20 key nations were doing business with China as opposed to just 9 nations with the USA. This means that these nations will also have a direct impact on their imports, to say the basics.
